Anthony Deetjen, or Decker, is about fity-live years of age, and had been in the employ of the Burland Littographic Company of Mourteal, which company had for years done all the stamp and bill engraving for the Dominion Government, With several German confederates he is said to have been engaged in counterfeiting Canadian bills for about a year.

Several thousand dellars' worth of $1 bills were issued by the gang, and are reported to have been printed by a first somewhere in the vicinity of Nassau Street, New York. In addition, he is credited with printing and issuing about $250. $600 worth of $5 bills of the Molson Bank. It seems that his intention to escape to Germany was only prevented by the combined action of the Canadian and United States authorities. It was 'his intention to dispose of the entire output of his plant in a cirtnight, and then leave the country. For a time he lived in Montreal, but subsequently removed to Toronto, Detroit, Windsor, London, and several small places in the United States. After suddenly leaving London, Ontario, he went to Baltimore, where was arrested.
